Since general commercial search engines aren't designed for you learners. What may be the best search results for adults are too difficult for you learners to understand. A handful of search engines for kids have been on the market but do not nearly ensure that high quality content written for kids is easy to find.

Sweetsearch4me searches only websites that are approved by a staff of experts, librarians and teachers.

SweetSearch2Day, is where students learn something new everyday. It was developed with leading educators to help teachers integrate the best online content into daily lessons, and to lead students to explore educational content online.

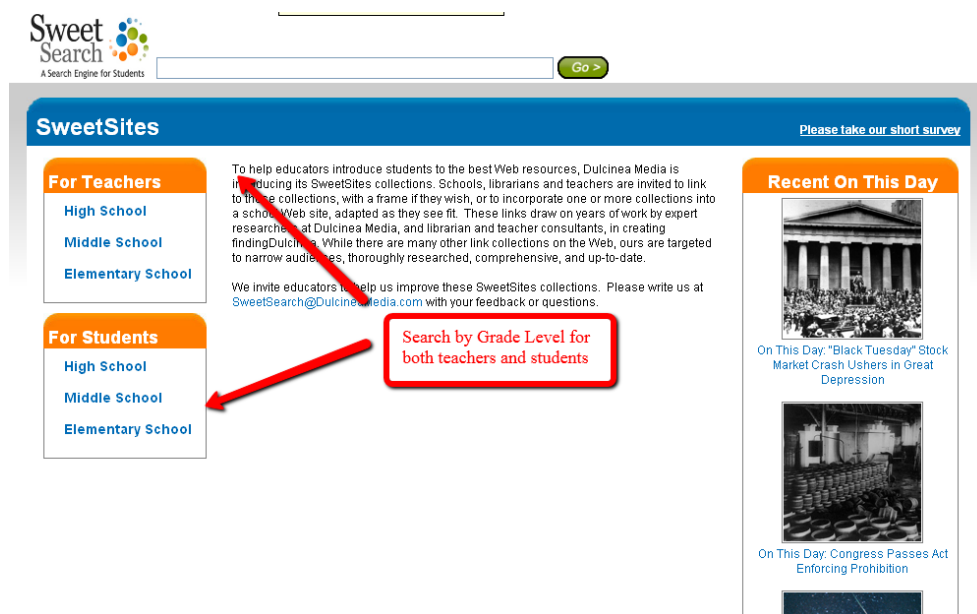

It is a daily curated assortment of the best content on the Web for history, language arts, science, news, culture and other topics.

The screenshot shows the SweetSearch2Day website. At the top, there are three logos: 'Sweet Search day', 'Sweet Search A Search Engine for Students', and 'Sweet Search me A Search Engine Just for Me'. Below the first logo is the tagline 'Learn Something Every Day'. A red box labeled 'Search Engine' points to the search bar of the 'Sweet Search' logo. Below the logos is a banner that reads 'a daily curated assortment of the best content on the Web for history, language arts, science, news, culture and other topics.' Below the banner, the date 'Today is Friday October 29th, 2010' is displayed, with a red arrow pointing to it from a box labeled 'Updates everyday'. The main content area is divided into several sections: 'SweetSearch2Day Blog' with a link to 'Liberty Unveiled, Prohibition Passed, Lou Gehrig, Charles Schulz, Women of Honor'; 'News Widgets' featuring a 'HELPING CHILDREN AROUND THE WORLD TO READ AND LEARN' widget; 'Today in History' with a link to 'On This Day: "Black Tuesday" Stock Market Crash Ushers In Great Depression'; 'New Studies' with a link to 'Environmental Science'; and 'Spotlight' featuring 'Dorothy Parker, Literary Critic and Writer'. The website has a colorful, abstract background.

SweetSearch for Librarians searches 35,000 web sites that librarians and teachers have evaluated.

Sweetsites is a site that will allow teachers and students to search topics by grade level.

Sweetsearch Biographies offers profiles and outstanding search results for thousands of famous or infamous people from many walks of life, professions and countries, spanning many centuries. The filters help you choose intriguing people found in many categories.
